

Willington Termite and Pest Control

Willington Termite and Pest Control is another Willington gem, a family owned and operated business formed by Edward “Ned” Beebe and his wife Lena in 1978. With hard work and determination, they turned it into a highly successful business specializing in the control of wood destroying insects. Ned and Lena raised their two children, Christina and Eric, here in our small town. Ned quickly immersed himself in the community as a volunteer firefighter, EMT, Fire Department President, VFW Post Commander as well as by service in numerous elected and appointed roles in town government. He passed on his love of Willington to his children. Christina Beebe Mailhos is a three term First Selectman, and Eric took over the family business in 2004. Eric, who has worked at Willington Termite and Pest Control since about 1990, continued its success with fair pricing, prompt state of the art service, an easy manner and a dry sense of humor inherited from his father. Eric said that Ned, who was awarded Connecticut pest control license, B-0001, used to say that Willington Termite and Pest Control would always be the “Number One” pest control company in Connecticut.
